News from Annual Council

Council Leader sets goals for coming year at Annual Council meeting as Councillors' allowances are cut by five per cent

Councillors from all three local political parties came together on Thursday 26 May to take part in Waltham Forest's Annual Council ceremony.

During the evening, votes were cast to decide the members of the borough's numerous political committees, as well as to name the borough's Cabinet and Mayor.

Cllr Geoffrey Walker was elected as the Mayor of Waltham Forest.

One of the Mayor's inaugural responsibilities was to uphold a unanimous vote from all councillors to reduce their personal allowances by over five per cent. Furthermore, councillors also voted to halve the Mayoral budget and delete the Deputy Mayor position as part of the Council's ongoing efforts to save £65million over the next three years.

Leader of the Council, Cllr Chris Robbins, used the occasion to set out his priorities for the next twelve months, while praising the borough's accomplishments over the past year.

Cllr Robbins told Waltham Forest News: "In the past twelve

Councillors from all local political parties attend the Annual Council meeting months, we've had some great news for residents. We've secured over £7million funding to redevelop Lloyd Park and the managed to invest money into things like opening schools for the summer, more street sweepers and extra police.

In my opinion

Tasmia Syeda Tahia

Olympic Youth Ambassador

The London 2012 Games are probably the biggest and most important event happening in a lot of people's lives. Being part of this once in a lifetime opportunity as the Olympic Youth Ambassador for my school, Connaught School for Girls, makes me feel even more fortunate.

I am very proud to be representing my school and borough, as well as my Asian-Bangladeshi heritage and, most importantly, the views and thoughts of the youth of the borough who will inherit the legacy left by the Olympics.

Becoming an Olympic Youth Ambassador was a dream-come-true for me. I first found out about the scheme at the Leyton Summer Fair after speaking with the Council's 2012 team. I was also inspired by my aunt, Fatima Marzia, who saw in me the qualities needed to fulfill this role.

I am also grateful to my parents, my form tutor, Valerie Robins, and her lovely art technician Tina for their continuous support and inspiration which enabled me to undertake this role. And it would have been impossible without the support and guidance of my school, particularly, my Head of Year and my Headteacher.

I have had many exciting opportunities as an Olympic Ambassador in the past six months, from touring the Olympic Park to attending the Love Your Borough Awards and meeting Olympians Jonathan Edwards and Kriss Akabusi. More recently, I helped launch the audio tour of the Olympic Park.

Most of all, this opportunity has taught me to never stop believing in myself and to strive for success.

This thought makes me want to introduce the 2012 Torchbearers Nominating process. This is a fantastic opportunity for everyone who wants to be a part of the Olympics or knows someone who lives up to the Olympic values.

The London 2012 organisers are looking for 8,000 torchbearers who would be in the heart of the action of the Torch Relay in 2012.

I am grateful to all those who saw the potential in me and enabled me to enjoy this role, so if you know someone who has potential, this may be the time to show that you have seen it in them as well. I hope you all have a great Olympics.

To nominate someone as an Olympic Torchbearer, visit www.london2012.com and search for 'Moment to Shine'.

Register for E17 Art Trail

- Last chance to sign up for annual art event
- Registration for E17 Art Trail ends on Monday 13 June

It's a last call for those wanting to get involved with the seventh annual E17 Art Trail, with organisers telling artists they need to be making their way to the starting line.

This year's theme is 'On your marks!' and clearly has an eye on next year's Olympic and Paralympic Games. However, the theme can be interpreted in a number of ways, be it a literal celebration of the forthcoming sporting events to a more abstract interpretation about the mark local artists and residents can leave as our part of London 2012.

The event runs from 2-11 September, but time is ticking if you want to take part yourself – the booking deadline is Monday 13 June. The Trail is open to all - as long as they are able to secure a venue within E17 and host an event.

Last year saw 1200 people taking part, with 200 events taking place over ten days. 2010 also saw the E17 Art

Trail winning one of Waltham Forest's 'Love Your Borough' awards for their commitment to giving something back to the local community.

Laura Kerry, one of the event's founders told Waltham Forest News: "The greatest areas for development (of the Trail) now must include further partnerships with local business and if any would like to get more involved please get in touch. Partners' packs are available through our website.

We are always looking to find new and surprising venues for art as well as supporters of the Art Trail.

"In the longer term we would like to develop more work with regional or national arts organisations."

The New Mayor of Waltham Forest, Cllr Geoffrey Walker, and former Mayor Cllr Masood Ahmad

New mayor elected

- Cllr Geoffrey Walker announced as borough's new first citizen
- Former Mayor Cllr Masood Ahmad praises generosity of the residents who helped him raise more than £60,000 for charity

Waltham Forest welcomed a new Mayor on Thursday 26 May as part of this year's Annual Council ceremony.

Long-serving Hatch Lane ward member Cllr Geoffrey Walker was elected as the borough's first citizen amid plaudits from all political parties and announced that his charity for the year would be Haven House Children's Hospice, a caring organisation for children and young people with life-limiting conditions. Cllr Walker spoke passionately about the charity, and hopes to provide much-needed equipment and support through a year of intensive fundraising.

Cllr Walker is no stranger to mayoral duties, having been an active member of the Mayor's Charity Committee since the mid-1990s and having instituted the borough's popular civic carol concert. Beyond his hard work for the borough, Cllr Walker has worked in the engineering industry and is an accredited local preacher in the Methodist Church.

Cllr Walker is both a fan of brass band music and an accomplished musician in his own right. He became a Freeman of the City of London and a member of The Guild of Freemen in 2004.

The night also saw Cllr Masood Ahmad stepping down as the borough's first citizen and being praised for the enthusiasm of his mayoralty. Cllr Ahmad has raised well over £60,000 for his chosen charities – Whipps Cross Hospital and the Farishteh Trust, a local charity offering respite care for disabled young people. Money is still being received and this figure could still rise. Cllr Ahmad thanked the local community for their generosity and looked back on the year that had seen him attend almost 500 engagements, two 'Love Your Borough' celebrations, the borough's 300th citizenship ceremony and hosting delegations of visitors from as far afield as China, Indonesia, Greece and Bulgaria.

As well as welcoming the new Mayor, Annual Council also saw the borough's councillors unanimously vote to reduce the basic allowance for councillors by 5.3 per cent, reduce the mayoral budget and delete the post of deputy mayor as part of ongoing efforts to save £65m while facing increased demand on vital services such as social care.

Fact file

- In May each year, the Council elects a Councillor to serve as Mayor for twelve months.
- The Mayor is the Borough's civic and ceremonial head for a year and during that time, chooses not to serve on committees but instead acts as Chair of full Council meetings.
- The Mayor represents Waltham Forest at public, civic and ceremonial events. The Mayor's role extends to include events and organisations that support the community. The Mayor also entertains guests in the Mayor's Parlour for both formal and informal events.
- Together with the Queen's representative, Major Jeremy Fern TD DL, the Mayor receives members of the Royal Family and VIPs during official visits to the area.

Leader's view

Cllr Chris Robbins

Leader - Waltham Forest Council

The Annual Council Meeting is an important date in the year as it gives the chance to reflect on the challenges the Council has faced and some of the achievements made over the past twelve months.

Earlier this year the Council reluctantly agreed a budget containing the biggest package of savings we've ever had to introduce in Waltham Forest. Cuts in funding and increasing financial pressure mean that Waltham Forest must make savings of £65 million over the next three years.

However the Council made it clear that we wanted to protect the services residents valued the most highly and while we have had to look at savings across the board, we have continued to invest money in services residents say are most important.

We've paid for extra police officers, are opening schools for the summer to provide activities for residents of all ages, paying for more street cleaners and investing in services for vulnerable people.

“Over the coming year the Council will continue to deliver and fulfill its promises to our residents in the lead up to the 2012 games and beyond.”

The Council faces a number of financial challenges in the next year as we continue to make the savings necessary to balance our budget and build on the progress we've made in cleanliness, street safety and regeneration. We are determined to provide better services across the board, including improving the service you can expect whenever you contact the Council.

At the annual meeting I had the pleasure of thanking Cllr Masood Ahmad for his dedication to Waltham Forest during his year as Mayor.

I also welcomed Cllr Geoffrey Walker as the new Mayor of Waltham Forest and gave him my best wishes at the beginning of what will be a memorable year for him, and indeed our whole community, in 2012.

Over the coming year the Council will continue to deliver and fulfill its promises to our residents in the lead up to the 2012 games and beyond. It is my job to work to get the best possible deal for residents in difficult times and make Waltham Forest a better place to live and work.

In brief

Local projects need your vote

Two local community projects need your vote as they go head-to-head with other National Lottery-funded projects from across the UK in the semi-finals of The National Lottery Awards 2011. The Awards recognise the impact that Lottery-funded projects have on local communities and these semi-finalists have been shortlisted for the big differences they have made in Waltham Forest. 'Include Duchenne' – competing for Best Education Project – focuses on the behavioural and learning difficulties that often affect children with Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy; a serious and progressive muscle wasting condition. While 'The Smiling Sessions' – up for Best Arts Projects – sees musicians hold musical workshops in homes for the elderly.

• For more information on each project, or to register your vote, visit www.lotterygoodcauses.org.uk/awards. Free internet access is available at all libraries in the borough.

New sensory facility at children's hospice

Haven House Children's Hospice, a care centre in Woodford Green that is open to children in Waltham Forest, opened its new sensory facility last month. The facility will now provide stimulating and exciting multi-sensory experiences for children staying at or visiting the centre. Haven House's chief executive, Mike Palfreman, said: "Many of the children supported at Haven House have limited movement and the beauty of these systems is that the smallest of movements can create a whole range of sights and sounds that help to stimulate them and improve their movement and confidence." Waltham Forest's new mayor, Cllr Geoffrey Walker, has selected the hospice as his mayoral charity for the forthcoming year.

Happy trails

Community groups hiring minibuses through local charity Community Transport Waltham Forest (CTWF) can now look forward to a little more leg-room, after CTWF's acquisition of some trailers. The charity, which hires out vehicles for community excursions and transport, could finally heed calls from their customers for extra luggage capacity after securing a Lottery grant. However, drivers already hiring CTWF's minibuses will have to undergo one half-day training session before taking the trailers on the road. CTWF's John Pinckney said: "Although trailers do not have engines to go wrong, remember they are road going vehicles and therefore users will be required to undergo training."

• For more information on training or CTWF's services, visit www.communitytransportwf.co.uk or phone 020 8521 0665.

Residents can still get face-to-face advice

Here to help

- Council to launch pilot scheme in Leyton Library to ensure residents can continue to get face-to-face advice
- Residents will be able to pre-book appointments to get in-depth or confidential help

As we reported in the 23 May edition of Waltham Forest News, three of the borough's Waltham Forest Direct (WFD) shops – the 'one-stop' shops for advice on Council services – will be closing at the end of August as part of the Council's savings measures.

The shops in Leytonstone, Leyton and Chingford will be closing. While residents will still be able to phone the Council for help and advice, email in with their enquiries or visit the Council's website we know that, for some types of enquiry, a face-to-face conversation might be preferable.

Residents will still be able to visit offices like Juniper House – where the revenue and benefits team is based – and Cedar Wood House – the housing services office – to access specific services. As it is the largest, the most central, the most visited and the easiest to get to, the Walthamstow WFD shop will remain open.

From Monday 20 June the Council will also be testing a new scheme whereby visitors to Leyton Library will be able to access WFD services. As well as issuing books, CDs and DVDs and helping residents with library-related queries, staff will also be on-hand to answer general queries and help visitors access the services they need over the phone or online.

For enquiries regarding housing or benefits residents should pre-book appointments to discuss these matters. These meetings will be away from the main library area so as to minimise disruption and ensure privacy. Existing quiet study areas in the library will also be retained in full. Waltham Forest's Cabinet Member for Corporate Resources, Business and Employment, Cllr Afzal Akram, told Waltham Forest News: "We've have to save £65m over the next four years whilst facing increased demand on vital services such as social care and this means we have to make better, smarter use of the money we have. If we're going to be able to offer every single one of our residents high-quality services then we need to do things differently. The pilot scheme forms part of this plan.

"Our residents already use libraries for many different purposes, and we believe this pilot scheme will offer them more while helping us save money and protecting vital frontline services."

Fact file

- Services provided by the Council include street cleaning; refuse collection; recycling; care for vulnerable people; planning advice; children's centres; parks and open spaces; a museum and gallery service and housing advice.
- We aim to answer at least 80% of your enquiries first time around so you get the help or advice you need when you need it.
- It is estimated that face-to-face enquiries cost councils roughly £8. By contrast, it costs £3 per phone call and just 39p per online enquiry.
- The move to close three of the borough's WFD shops will save £359,000 – roughly the same amount as the salaries of 12 teachers or social workers.

Shining a light on homeless help

- New exhibition focuses on charity volunteers and London's homeless
- Aim is to "challenge common perceptions" of those in need

A new photography exhibition aims to explore the complex relationships developed between one charity's workers and some of London's homeless men and women.

The 'Guests and Volunteers' series, on show at Walthamstow's Tokarska Gallery, provides a rare glimpse into the London Crisis Rough Sleepers Centre, which offers vital shelter over Christmas.

Although normally closed to cameras, long-term Crisis volunteer Mark Burton was granted special permission to shine a spotlight on the centre in 2010, and take a series of haunting portraits.

Mark, who previously worked locally, capturing images of Walthamstow Stadium, said: "One of the most important things that happens at Crisis are the dignified and respectful relationships that develop between guests and volunteers."

This project, Mark says, represents those relationships and challenges common perceptions of homelessness. Prior to the shoot, Mark had his subjects remove any identifiable name-tags or badges, leaving the viewer left to wonder which subjects are volunteers and which are not.

The exhibition, running until Saturday 18 June, will also feature a discussion forum on Saturday 11 June from 2 – 4pm, with fellow Walthamstow photographer Katherine Green. Speakers, including subjects from 'Guests and Volunteers,' will discuss the challenges and responsibilities of representing individuals in vulnerable situations.

For more information, contact Mark direct through www.mburtonphoto.com or see the exhibition at Tokarska Gallery, 163 Forest Road, Walthamstow, E17 6HE.

In brief

Victorian childhoods

For most children life without TV, mobiles and the internet is unthinkable; but a new exhibition at Vestry House Museum aims to change all that. Visitors to the new Victorian Childhood exhibition, running until 17 July, will find jeans and hoodies replaced with top hats and pantalettes, while PS3s are swapped for humble games like the ball and cup. Interactive aspects of the exhibition – on loan from the Luton Museum Service – also include a family quiz and an old-fashioned puppet theatre. Elsewhere, the fun and games make way for serious topics, including family life, education and the shocking realities of child labour.

• For more information phone 020 8496 4391 or visit the exhibition at Vestry House Museum, Vestry Road, Walthamstow E17 9NH, Wednesday to Sunday, 10am – 5pm.

Measles vaccination

The NHS is asking parents to have their children fully vaccinated against measles as many European countries are reporting large outbreaks of the disease. Dr Jane Moore, director of public health for NHS outer north east London, said: "The most effective way of preventing measles is the MMR vaccine. I urge parents to check their children have had both doses of the vaccine." Children in the UK are offered immunisation against measles with the MMR – measles, mumps and rubella – vaccine. The first dose is given at 13 months old with a second dose given before a child starts school.

• For more information, contact your GP or visit www.nhs.uk. Free internet access is available at all libraries.

Chingford

Pimp Hall Nature Reserve, Memorial Park, Ridgeway Park and Drysdale Park

Natural beauty

- Parks in the north of Waltham Forest reflect the area's rural heritage
- Open spaces in Chingford help bring communities together with fun packed activities

If you'd visited Chingford 80 years ago, you would probably have found yourself in a field, with perhaps a few trees for company. It is a testament to the efforts of the community throughout the decades that large areas of rustic rural charm still remain today.

And it is these open spaces that have played such an important role in bringing the local community together to provide a place to socialise, play, relax and enjoy.

Regardless of whether it's the model railway in Ridgeway Park, the Bowling Green, pond and pavilion at Memorial Park or the stunning natural beauty of Pimp Hall Nature Reserve that people are looking for, they continue to flock in their thousands to Chingford's parks.

Other hidden delights include play areas for under sevens and under 12s and a kickabout area at Drysdale Park in Drysdale Avenue, while Pimp Hall Park in Simmons Lane has a basketball court, new adventure playground and fantastic views across London.

There has also been the £220,000 installation of natural play facilities at Chase Lane, Ridgeway, Memorial and Pimp Hall Parks through the Play Builder scheme.

And the Council is working hard so there are plenty of opportunities to take part in leisure and conservation activities in Chingford's parks.

Waltham Forest Council's Cabinet Member for Leisure, Arts and Culture, Cllr

Geraldine Reardon, said: "Chingford is the greenest part of Waltham Forest and the parks there give residents the chance to really get close to nature and get away from it all.

"There are unique and unusual features in many of Chingford's parks and they are well worth a visit because you'll be sure to find something to interest you, regardless of your age."

As well as encouraging as many natural habitats as possible the Council is also keen to encourage more people to use parks to stay fit and healthy and 'Green Gyms' are now taking place around the borough.

These give people the chance to do much needed conservation work in the parks and help the environment while keeping fit and healthy.

In addition to the Green Gyms, Groundwork London also run volunteering days in our parks and open spaces.

You can get involved in activities in your local park as part of a Friends of Park Group or users group.

To find out about Green Gyms or Friends of Parks groups, or if you are interested in setting up a user group or Friends Group please contact liza.sumpter@walthamforest.gov.uk.

Fact file

The Council is encouraging natural habitats in Chingford's parks by:

- Reducing mowing and encouraging natural long grass areas in Mansfield Park, Ridgeway Park and Highams Park to provide home, food and shelter to a variety of creatures such as butterflies, voles and grasshoppers.
- Creating a trial wildflower meadow area within the long grass areas at Mansfield Park. It is hoped that wildflower meadows will be created in other parks in the borough over the next two years.
- Creating deadwood areas in parks for nesting birds, bats and different mammals to live and thrive in.
- Building 'Minibeast hotels' in Ridgeway Park for hibernating creatures such as butterflies, moths, lacewings and some bees.

All right on the mic

- Popular open mic night showcases local performing talent
- Actors, bands, comedians and poets encouraged to take part

Every Tuesday evening the Plough and Harrow pub in Leytonstone is home to a free open mic jam night that sees performances of everything from acoustic music to improvised comedy.

The night began on the first Tuesday in January this year and was soon attracting singers and songwriters, as well as comics, poets and actors.

Organiser Ben James explains: "The night in Leytonstone came about because I run another open mic night in Mile End. A friend of mine knew the landlord of the Plough and Harrow and invited him along to the night. He liked what he saw and asked me to run something similar in Leytonstone. The venue is great; it's a really nice space with plenty of room to perform."

Although the pub does not have a full public address (PA) system, there is a piano and the organisers always provide a small amplifier and microphone. Performers are also welcome to bring their own equipment if they wish.

Ben said: "At the moment it's mainly acoustic performances like singer songwriters with guitars or pianists, but we've also had stand-up comics, a comedy improv group, some Ben said: "There's absolutely no need to be nervous about performing. Everyone is really friendly and very supportive - that's my favourite thing about the night.

"Those who have never played in front of other people before get the biggest round of applause of the night and seem to get the most out of the evening. The first time ways of using the space, interacting with the audience, alternative interpretations of popular songs, clever lyrics of their own and then there's the people who bring in their art and photography too - there's bags of talent around here."

Ben is very interested in hearing from people who might not want to perform, but can show off other talents on the night. So if you're an artist, photographer, crafter, jewellery maker or anything else you are encouraged to go along and show your work.

Anyone wanting to take part should phone or email Ben to find out more. Performances start between 8 and 8.30pm, and entry is completely free.

spoken word and an actor even did an audition here. But everyone is welcome, whether they want to perform their own stuff or cover songs or just watch."

Everyone who takes part will get at least ten minutes on the stage, whether they are an experienced performer or if it is their first time in front of an audience.

I ever played outside of my bedroom, I forgot the words to my own song because I was nervous, and now I run my own night. Everyone starts at the beginning, so come down and have a go, you might surprise yourself.

Nominate torch bearers

Time is running out for you to nominate someone special to be an Olympic torch bearer for the London 2012 Games. Around 8000 inspirational people living in the UK are being sought to carry the torch on its route to the Olympic Stadium in time for the start of the games. Around 90 per cent of those bearers will be members of the public. The torch will arrive in the UK at Lands End on 18 May 2012 and travel around the country ahead of the London 2012 Games. The deadline for nominations is 11.59pm on Wednesday 29 June 2011. Torch bearers must be UK residents and 12 years or older on the day they are due to carry it. So if you know someone inspirational who deserves to carry the torch, why not nominate them?

• For more information and to nominate someone visit www.london2012.com/olympictorchrelay. Free internet access is available at all libraries in the borough.

Olympic Park 'podcast' tour

- Former Olympic triple jump champion Jonathan Edwards talks you through the Olympic Park
- Waltham Forest youngsters attend 'podcast' launch event

If you take a tour of the Olympic park you can now get a running commentary of what's happening thanks to a new 'podcast' that accompanies your visit.

The audio tour is narrated by former Olympic triple jump champion Jonathan Edwards and provides in-depth and up-to-date information about the Olympic Park and the new London 2012 venues.

It also brings to life the excitement of the Olympic Games and tells the story of the park's transformation from 2007, when construction started, to the latest progress on the venues, which are now nearing completion.

The tour is designed to be listened to along The Greenway, a walkway overlooking the Olympic Park from where you can see the new venues and parklands for yourself. Visitors listen to the commentary via headphones, just like audio tours in a museum or gallery

Three young people from Waltham Forest attended the podcast's launch on The Greenway with Jonathan Edwards and Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) Chairman John Armit last month.

Youth Ambassadors Tasmia Syeda Tahia and Isadora Bucher and work experience student Jonathan Akinrinwa rubbed shoulders with dignitaries and listened to the pod cast.

Tasmia told Waltham Forest News: "It was a really interesting day and we found out about all the work that has been done on the Olympic Park. The podcast gives lots of information and really enhances the tour."

Fact file

- The ODA offers free bus tours of the Olympic Park to give the public the chance to see how work on the 2012 Games is going.
- Tours are available on Saturdays and Sundays at 9.30am, 11am, 1.30pm and 3pm and last an hour.
- Places are limited so booking is essential. Bookings can be made up to three months in advance and can be done by phoning 0300 2012 001.
- Attendees need to bring photographic identification and must be over eight years old.

The HEART Programme aims to help young people handle their relationships

Have HEART

- New project offers young people relationship advice
- Scheme aims to reduce crime and violence by helping teens cope with peers, boyfriends and girlfriends

Teen relationships can be a tricky business, but help is at hand thanks to a new project which aims to give young people the advice and support they need.

Waltham Forest is one of three London boroughs pioneering the Healthy Relationships Training (HEART) Programme, a two-year scheme geared towards helping young people navigate the rocky terrain of young love as they deal with the perils of hormones, lust and peer pressure.

The HEART Programme aims to help improve relationships with peers and partners, with a focus on reducing the risk of young people either committing or being on the receiving end of physical or sexual violence. In the long-term, the programme aims to reduce victimisation and crime while improving participants' chances and opportunities later on in life.

While mentoring and one-to-one advice from experienced youth workers will be available for those who've been identified as particularly in need of help, the project also sees the launch and Cohesion, Cllr Liaquat Ali, told Waltham Forest News: "For many young people relationships are a difficult subject to broach with friends, family or teachers.

"This new project offers advice from people who really people take full advantage of what the HEART Programme has to offer."

Approximately £275,000 has been provided by the European Parliament and Council, with the specific aim of preventing and combating violence against children, young people and women.

The bid for the project was entered by the Metropolitan Police, and Waltham Forest was chosen as one of the three trial boroughs because of its ongoing gang prevention work.

In brief

Car crime

Following a recent spike in theft of and from motor vehicles in Leyton and Leytonstone, Waltham Forest Police are urging local motorists to be extra vigilant. The advice they offer is simple, inexpensive and largely common sense, but living in a busy city means that even precautions such as locking your car doors, closing your sunroof and never leaving your belongings on show can be forgotten when you're rushing to work or picking the kids up from school. Police also advise drivers to keep their car keys somewhere safe once at home, as opportunistic burglars will often swipe them from the kitchen table or the hook in the hall.

Wildlife award

Waltham Forest's Sergeant Rowan Healey (pictured) has been named Metropolitan Police Borough Wildlife Crime Officer of the Year 2010 - 2011. The annual award, judged by officers from Scotland Yard's Wildlife Crime Unit, was presented to Sergeant Healey at a Wildlife Crime Training Day held at London Zoo. Sergeant Healey was chosen due to his hard work, which has included measures against songbird trapping and coordinating an international initiative to crack down on the unlawful trade in reptiles and amphibians. This is the third year that the Wildlife Crime Unit has recognized the work of officers, with the award previously going to officers from Bromley and Greenwich.

- For more information about the Wildlife Crime Unit visit www.met.police.uk/wildlife Free internet access is available in all of the borough's libraries.

Leytonstone bust

Following an invaluable tip-off from the local community, officers from Waltham Forest Police and the Met's Territorial Support Group swooped on a property in Leytonstone last month. As a result, three men were arrested for an array of offences that included burglary, possession of class B drugs and handling stolen goods. Two of the men were subsequently bailed, with the third being deported due to immigration issues. While the police are doing everything they can to make Waltham Forest a better, safer borough, it will often be the case that local people hold the key to bringing crooks to justice. If you have valuable information but don't want to go directly to the police, phone Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Short Break carers

A little time from you - a huge benefit for a child

Want to do something great this year?

You could be a Short Break Carer for a disabled child.

A Short Break Carer is someone who looks after a disabled child for short periods of time on a regular basis. Just a few hours can make a big difference to some disabled children and their families.

A short break can give a disabled child the opportunity to make new friends, try new activities and gain independence.

It gives the families of disabled children a well earned rest from full time caring, lets them get out for the evening, spend time with their other children or just put their feet up.

You get to have fun and the satisfaction of knowing that you are making a difference to a disabled child and their family. All we ask is that you enjoy looking after children and you are able to give some time on a regular basis. We will give you support, training and a regular allowance.
